- (e) of any work in cases where reproduction would conflict with a normal exploitation of the work or would otherwise unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the author or other owner of the copyright.

Temporary reproduction

8. Notwithstanding section 5(1)(a), the temporary reproduction of a work shall be permitted if all the following conditions are met—

- (a) the reproduction is made in the process of a digital transmission of the work or an act of making a digitally stored work perceptible;
- (b) it is caused by a person or entity that, by way of authorisation by the owner of copyright or of operation of law, is entitled to make that transmission or the making perceptible of the work;

10. (1) Notwithstanding section 5(1)(a), the following acts shall be permitted without authorisation of the author or other owner of copyright—

(2) The source of the work reproduced and the name of the author shall be indicated as far as practicable on all copies made under subsection (1).

Reprographic reproduction by libraries and archives

11. Notwithstanding section 5(1)(a), any library or archive whose activities do not serve direct or indirect gain may, without the authorisation of the author or other owner of copyright, make a single copy of the work by reprographic reproduction—

- (a) where the work reproduced is a published article, other short work or short extract of a work, and where the purpose of the reproduction is to satisfy the request of a natural person, if—
 - (i) the library or archive is satisfied that the copy will be used solely for the purposes of study, scholarship or private research,
 - (ii) the act of reproduction is an isolated case occurring, if repeated, on separate and unrelated occasions, and
 - (iii) there is no collective licence available (that is, offered by a collective administration organisation of which the library or archive is or should be aware) under which such copies can be made; or
- (b) where the copy is made in order to preserve and, if necessary, replace a copy or to replace a copy which has been lost, destroyed or rendered unusable in the permanent collection of another similar library or archive, if—
 - (i) it is impossible to obtain such a copy under reasonable conditions, and
 - (ii) provided further that the act of reprographic reproduction is an isolated case occurring, if repeated, on separate and unrelated occasions.

Reproduction, broadcasting and other communication to the public for informational purposes

12. Notwithstanding sections 5(1)(a), (h) and (i), the following acts shall be permitted in respect of a work without the authorisation of the author or other owner of copyright, subject to the obligation to indicate the source and the name of the author as far as practicable—

- (a) the reproduction in a newspaper or periodical, the broadcasting or other communication to the public, of an article published in a newspaper or periodical on current economic, political or religious topics or a broadcast work of the same character, but this permission shall not apply where the right to authorise reproduction, broadcasting or other communication to the public is expressly reserved on the copies by the author or other owner of copyright, or in connection with broadcasting or other communication to the public of the work;
- (b) for the purpose of reporting current events, the reproduction and the broadcasting or other communication to the public of short excerpts of a work seen or heard in the course of such events, to the extent justified by the purpose;
- (c) the reproduction in a newspaper or periodical, the broadcasting or other communication to the public of a political speech, a lecture, address, sermon or other work of a similar nature delivered in public, or a speech delivered during legal proceedings, to the extent justified by the purpose of providing current information.

Reproduction and adaptation of computer programs

13. (1) Notwithstanding sections 5(1)(a) and (c), the reproduction in a single copy or the adaptation of a computer program by the lawful owner of a copy of that computer program shall be permitted without the authorisation of the author or other owner of copyright, if the copy or adaptation is necessary—

- (a) for use of the computer program with a computer for the purpose and extent for which the computer program has been obtained; or
- (b) for archival purposes and for the replacement of the lawfully owned copy of the computer program in the event that the copy of the computer program is lost, destroyed or rendered unusable.

(2) No copy or adaptation of a computer program shall be used for any purpose other than those specified in subsection (1), and any such copy or adaptation shall be destroyed in the event that continued possession of the copy of the computer program ceases to be lawful.

Display of works

14. Notwithstanding section 5(1)(f), the public display of originals or copies of works shall be permitted without the authorisation of the author, if—

- (a) the display is made other than by means of a film, slide, television image or otherwise on screen or by means of any other device or process; and
- (b) the work has been published or the original or the copy displayed has been sold, given away or otherwise transferred to another person by the author or his successor in title.

Duration of copyright

15. (1) Subject to subsections (2) to (5), the economic and moral rights of the author shall be protected during the life of the author and for 50 years after his death.

(2) In the case of a work of joint authorship, the economic and moral rights of the authors shall be protected during the life of the last surviving author and for 50 years after his death.

(3) In the case of a collective work, other than a work of applied art, and in the case of an audiovisual work, the economic and moral rights to the work shall be protected for 50 years from the date on which the work was either made, first made available to the public, or first published, whichever date is the latest.

(4) In the case of a work published anonymously or under a pseudonym, the economic and moral rights to the work shall be protected for 50 years from the date on which the work was either made, first made available to the public or first published, whichever date is the latest, but, where the author's identity is revealed or is no longer in doubt before the expiration of that period, subsection (1) or (2) shall apply, as the case may be.

(5) In the case of a work of applied art, the economic and moral rights to the work shall be protected for 25 years from the making of the work.

(6) Every period provided for under subsections (1) to (5) shall run to the end of the calendar year in which it would otherwise expire.

Original ownership of economic rights

16. (1) Subject to subsections (2) to (5), the original owner of economic rights is the author who has created the work.

(2) In respect of a work of joint authorship, the co-authors shall be the original owners of the economic rights. If, however, a work of joint authorship consists of parts that can be used separately and the author of each part can be identified, the author of each part shall be the original owner of the economic rights in the part that he has created.

(3) In respect of a collective work, the natural person or legal entity at the initiative and under the direction of whom or which the work has been created shall be the original owner of the economic rights.

(4) In respect of a work created in the course of his employment by an author employed by a natural person or legal entity, the original owner of the economic rights shall be, unless provided otherwise in a contract, the employer.

(5) In respect of an audiovisual work, the original owner of the economic rights shall be the producer, unless provided otherwise in a contract. The co-authors of the audiovisual work and the authors of the pre-existing works included in or adapted for the making of the audiovisual work shall, however, maintain their economic rights in their contributions or pre-existing works, respectively, to the extent that those contributions or pre-existing works can be the subject of acts covered by their economic rights separately from the audiovisual work.

Presumption of authorship and of representation of the author

17. (1) The natural person whose name is indicated as the author on a work in the usual manner shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be presumed to be the author of the work. This provision shall be applicable even if the name is a pseudonym, where the pseudonym leaves no doubt as to the identity of the author.

(2) In the case of an anonymous or pseudonymous work, other than a pseudonymous work referred to in subsection (1), the publisher whose name appears on the work shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be presumed to represent the author and in this capacity shall be entitled to exercise and enforce the moral and economic rights of the author. This presumption shall cease to apply when the author reveals his identity.

Assignment and licence of author's rights

18. (1) Economic rights shall be assignable in whole or in part.

(2) Any assignment of an economic right, and any licence to do an act subject to authorisation by the author or other owner of copyright, shall be in writing signed by the assignor and the assignee, or by the licensor and the licensee.

(3) An assignment in whole or in part of any economic right, or a licence to do an act subject to authorisation by the author or other owner of copyright, shall not include or be deemed to include the assignment or licence of any other rights not explicitly referred to therein.

(3) Independently of the performer's economic rights, and even after the transfer of those rights, the performer shall, as regards his live aural performances and performances fixed in phonograms, have the right to claim to be identified as the performer of his performances, except where omission is dictated by the manner of the use of the performance, and to object to any distortion, mutilation or other modification of his performances that would be prejudicial to his reputation. Sections 6(2) and (3) apply mutatis mutandis to the rights granted under this subsection.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed to deprive a performer of the right to agree by contract on terms and conditions more favourable to him in respect of his performance.

(5) The rights under this section shall be protected until the end of the 50th calendar year following the year in which the performance was fixed in a phonogram, or in the absence of such a fixation, from the end of the year in which the performance took place.

- (c) the distribution to the public by sale or other transfer of ownership of the original or copies of the phonogram that have not already been subject to a distribution authorised by the producer;
- (d) rental to the public or public lending of a copy of the phonogram, irrespective of the ownership of the copy rented or lent;
- (e) the making available to the public of the phonogram, by wire or wireless means, in such a way that members of the public may access it from a place or at a time individually chosen by them.

(2) The rights under subsection (1) shall be protected from the publication of the phonogram until the end of the 50th calendar year following the year of publication or, if the phonogram has not been published, from the fixation of the phonogram until the end of the 50th calendar year following the year of fixation.

Equitable remuneration for use of phonograms

21. (1) If a phonogram published for commercial purposes, or a reproduction of such phonogram, is used directly for broadcasting or other communication to the public, or is publicly performed, a single equitable remuneration for the performer or performers and the producer of the phonogram shall be paid by the user to the producer.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed between the performers and the producer, half of the amount received by the producer under subsection (1) shall be paid by the producer to the performer or performers.

(3) The right to an equitable remuneration under this section shall subsist from the date of publication of the phonogram until the end of the 50th calendar year following the year of publication or, if the phonogram has not been published, from the date of fixation of the phonogram until the end of the 50th calendar year following the year of fixation.

(4) For the purposes of this section, phonograms that have been made available to the public by wire or wireless means in such a way that members of the public may access them from a place and at a time individually chosen by them shall be considered as if they have been published for commercial purposes.

Acts requiring authorisation of broadcasting organisations

22. (1) Subject to section 23, a broadcasting organisation shall have the exclusive right to carry out or to authorise any of the following acts—

- (a) the rebroadcasting of its broadcast;
- (b) the communication to the public of its broadcast;
- (c) the fixation of its broadcast;
- (d) the reproduction of a fixation of its broadcast.

(2) The rights under this section shall be protected from the moment when the broadcasting takes place until the end of the 50th calendar year following the year in which the broadcast takes place.

Limitations on protection

23. Sections 19, 20, 21, and 22 shall not apply where the acts referred to in those sections are related to—

- (a) using short excerpts for reporting current events to the extent justified by the purpose of providing current information;
- (b) reproduction solely for scientific research;
- (c) reproduction solely for the purpose of face-to-face teaching activities, except for performances and phonograms which have been published as teaching or instructional materials; or
- (d) cases where, under Part 2, a work can be used without the authorisation of the author or other owner of copyright.

INFRINGEMENT

Definition of “action”

24. In this Part, “action” includes a counterclaim, and reference to the plaintiff and to the defendant in an action shall be construed accordingly.

Action by owner of rights for infringement

25. (1) Subject to this Act, infringements of rights of the owner of copyright shall be actionable in the Court at the suit of the owner of copyright; and in any action for such an infringement all such relief by way of damages, injunction, accounts or otherwise shall be available to the plaintiff as is available in any corresponding proceedings in respect of infringements of other proprietary rights.

(2) In an action for infringement of rights in respect of the construction of a building, no injunction or other order shall be made—

- (a) after the construction of the building has begun, so as to prevent it from being completed; or
- (b) so as to require the building, in so far as it has been constructed, to be demolished.

Action by exclusive licensee for infringement

26. (1) An exclusive licensee has, except against the owner of copyright, the same rights and remedies in respect of matters occurring after the grant of the licence as if the licence had been an assignment.

(2) The rights and remedies of an exclusive licensee are concurrent with those of the owner of copyright, and references in the relevant provisions of this Part to the owner of copyright shall be construed accordingly.

(3) In an action brought by an exclusive licensee by virtue of this section, a defendant may avail himself of any defence which would have been available to him if the action had been brought by the owner of copyright.

Exercise of concurrent rights

27. (1) Where an action for infringement of copyright brought by the owner of copyright or an exclusive licensee relates (wholly or partly) to an infringement in respect of which they have concurrent rights of action, the owner of copyright or the exclusive licensee, as the case may be, may not, without the leave of the Court, proceed with the action unless the other is either joined as a plaintiff or added as a defendant.

(2) An owner of copyright or exclusive licensee who is added as a defendant in pursuance of subsection (1) is not liable for any costs in the action unless he takes part in the proceedings.

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) do not affect the granting of interlocutory relief on an application by an owner of copyright or exclusive licensee alone.

(4) Where an action for infringement of copyright is brought which relates (wholly or partly) to an infringement in respect of which the owner of copyright and an exclusive licensee have or had concurrent rights of action—

- (a) the Court may in assessing damages take into account—
 - (i) the terms of the licence, and
 - (ii) any pecuniary remedy already awarded or available to either of them in respect of the infringement;
- (b) no account of profits shall be directed if an award of damages has been made, or an account of profits has been directed, in favour of the other of them in respect of the infringement; and

- (c) the Court may, if an account of profits is directed, apportion the profits between them as the Court considers just, subject to any agreement between them; and these provisions apply whether or not the owner of copyright and the exclusive licensee are both parties to the action.

Secondary infringements

28. (1) Copyright in a work is infringed by a person who, without the authorisation of the owner of copyright—

- (a) possesses in the course of a business;
- (b) sells or lets for hire, or offers or exposes for sale or hire;
- (c) in the course of a business, exhibits in public or distributes; or
- (d) distributes otherwise than in the course of a business to such an extent as to affect prejudicially the owner of copyright; an article, the making of which he knows or has reason to believe, constituted an infringement of copyright.

(2) Copyright in a work is infringed by a person who, without the authorisation of the owner of copyright—

- (a) makes;
- (b) imports into Anguilla;
- (c) possesses in the course of a business; or
- (d) sells or lets for hire, or offers or exposes for sale or hire;

an article specifically designed or adapted for making copies of that work, knowing or having reason to believe that the making of those copies would constitute an infringement of copyright.

(3) Where copyright in a work is infringed by a performance at a place of public entertainment, any person who gave permission for that place to be used for the performance is also liable for the infringement unless, when he gave permission, he believed on reasonable grounds that the performance would not infringe copyright.

(4) In subsection (3), “place of public entertainment” includes premises which are occupied mainly for other purposes but are from time to time made available for hire for the purposes of public entertainment.

(5) Where copyright in a work is infringed by a public performance of the work, or by the playing or showing of the work in public, by means of apparatus for showing audiovisual works or receiving visual images or sounds conveyed by electronic means, the following persons are also liable for the infringement—

- (a) a person who supplied the apparatus, or any substantial part of it, if when he supplied the apparatus or part—
 - (i) he knew or had reason to believe that the apparatus was likely to be used so as to infringe copyright, or
 - (ii) in the case of apparatus whose normal use involves a public performance or showing, he did not believe on reasonable grounds that it would be so used as to infringe copyright;
- (b) an occupier of premises who gave permission for the apparatus to be brought onto the premises if, when he gave permission, he knew or had reason to believe that the apparatus was likely to be so used as to infringe copyright;
- (c) a person who supplied a copy of an audiovisual work used to infringe copyright if, when he supplied it, he knew or had reason to believe that what he supplied, or a copy made directly or indirectly from it, was likely to be so used as to infringe copyright.

Presumption of authorship and of representation of the author

29. (1) The natural person or legal entity whose name is indicated as the author in the original or copies of a work shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be presumed to be the owner of copyright in the work, and this provision shall be applicable even if the name is a pseudonym, where the pseudonym leaves no doubt as to the identity of the author.

(2) Where no name purporting to be that of the author appears on the original or copies of a work but a name purporting to be that of a publisher appears on copies of the work as first published, the person whose name so appears shall be presumed, until the contrary is proved, to be the owner of copyright in the work as first published.

(3) If the author of the work is dead or the identity of the author cannot be ascertained by reasonable inquiry, it shall be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that—

- (a) the work is an original work; and
- (b) the plaintiff's allegation as to what was the first publication of the work is correct.

Presumptions relevant to sound recordings, audiovisual works and computer programs

30. (1) In proceedings brought by virtue of this Act with respect to a sound recording, where copies of the recording as issued to the public bear a label or other mark stating—

- (a) that a named person was the producer of the recording at the date of issue of the copies;
- (b) that a named person was a performer in the recording at the date of issue of the copies; or
- (c) that the recording was first published in a specific year or in a specified country;

the label or mark shall be admissible as evidence of the facts stated and shall be presumed to be correct until the contrary is proved.

(2) In proceedings brought by virtue of this Act with respect to an audiovisual work, where copies of the audiovisual work as issued to the public bear a statement—

- (a) that a named person was the author or director of the audiovisual work;
- (b) that a named person was the owner of copyright in the audiovisual work at the date of issue of the copies; or
- (c) that the audiovisual work was first published in a specified year or in a specified country;

the statement shall be admissible as evidence of the facts stated and shall be presumed to be correct until the contrary is proved.

(3) In proceedings brought by virtue of this Act with respect to a computer program, where copies of the program are issued to the public in electronic form bearing a statement—

- (a) that a named person was the owner of copyright in the program at the date of issue of the copies; or
- (b) that the program was first published in a specified country or that copies of it were first issued to the public in electronic form in a specified year;

the statement shall be admissible as evidence of the facts stated and shall be presumed to be correct until the contrary is proved.

(4) Subsections (1) to (3) apply equally in proceedings relating to an infringement alleged to have occurred before the date on which the copies were issued to the public.

(5) In proceedings brought by virtue of this Act with respect to an audiovisual work, where the audiovisual work as shown in a communication to the public bears a statement—

- (a) that a named person was the author or director of the audiovisual work; or
- (b) that a named person was the owner of copyright in the audiovisual work immediately after it was made;

the statement shall be admissible as evidence of the facts and shall be presumed to be correct until the contrary is proved and this presumption applies equally in proceedings relating to an infringement alleged to have occurred before the date on which the audiovisual work was communicated to the public.

Presumptions relevant to works of Government

31. In proceedings brought by virtue of this Act with respect to a work, copyright in which belongs to the Government of Anguilla, where there appears on printed copies of the work a statement of the year in which the work was first published commercially, that statement shall be admissible as evidence of the fact stated and shall be presumed to be correct in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

CIVIL REMEDIES AND CRIMINAL LIABILITY

Civil remedies for infringement

32. (1) The Court shall have the authority—
- (a) to grant injunctions to prohibit the committing, or continuation of committing, of an infringement of any right protected under this Act;
 - (b) to order the impounding of copies of works or sound recordings suspected of being made or imported without the authorisation of the owner of any right protected under this Act where the making or importation of copies is subject to such authorisation, as well as the impounding of the packaging of, the implements that could be used for the making of, and the documents, accounts or business papers referring to, such copies;
 - (c) to order the forfeiture and seizure of all copies of works or sound recordings manufactured, reproduced, distributed, sold or otherwise used, intended for use or possessed with intent to use in contravention of section 5 or 20 and all plates, moulds, matrices, masters, tapes, film negatives, or other articles by means of which such copies of works or sound recordings may be reproduced and all electronic, mechanical or other devices for manufacturing, reproducing, or assembling such copies of works or sound recordings;
 - (d) to order that the owner of any right protected under this Act, whose right has been infringed, be paid by the infringer damages adequate to compensate for the injury suffered as a consequence of the act of infringement, as well as the payment of expenses caused by the infringement, including legal costs;
 - (e) to fix the amount of damages taking into account the pecuniary and non-pecuniary loss suffered by the owner of the right;
 - (f) to order an account of the infringer's profits attributable to the infringement; and
 - (g) where infringing copies exist, to order the destruction or other reasonable disposition of those copies and their packaging outside the channels of commerce in such a manner as to avoid harm to the holder of the right, unless the owner of the right requests otherwise.

(2) Where the infringer did not know or had no reasonable reason to know that he was engaged in infringing activity, the Court may limit damages to the profits of the infringer attributable to the infringement.

(3) Where there is a danger that implements may be used to commit or continue to commit acts of infringement, the Court shall have the authority, whenever and to the extent that it is reasonable, to order their destruction or other reasonable disposition outside the channels of commerce in such a manner as to minimize the risks of further infringements, including surrender to the owner of the right.

(4) The Court shall not, in respect of the same infringement, both award the owner of rights damages and order that he shall be given an account of profits.

(5) The provisions of paragraph (1)(g) shall not be applicable to copies and their packaging which were acquired by a third party in good faith.

(6) Where there is a danger that acts of infringement may be continued, the Court shall have the authority to order that such acts not be committed and the Court may fix a fine of $5,000 for each day on which the infringement is continued, which fine shall be paid if the order is not respected.

Wide injunction available to licensing bodies

33. Where, in an action under this Part—

- (a) the infringement of copyright is proved or admitted;
- (b) the plaintiff is a licensing body; and
- (c) the Court, having regard to all material circumstances, is satisfied that effective relief would not otherwise be available to the plaintiff;

the Court may grant an injunction extending to all the protected works, sound recordings, broadcasts or performances, as the case may be, of which the plaintiff is the owner of copyright, notwithstanding that the infringement related to only one or some of the works, sound recordings, broadcasts or performances.

Withdrawal of privilege against incrimination of self or spouse in infringement and related proceedings

34. (1) In this section—

“related offence”, in relation to any proceedings to which subsection (2) applies, means—

- (a) in the case of proceedings within paragraph (3)(a) or (b)—
 - (i) any offence committed by or in the course of the infringement to which those proceedings relate, or
 - (ii) any offence not within subparagraph (i) committed in connection with that infringement, being an offence involving fraud or dishonesty; and “related penalty”, in relation to any proceedings to which subsection (2) applies, means—

- (a) in the case of proceedings within paragraph (3)(a) or (b), any penalty incurred in respect of anything done or omitted in connection with the infringement to which those proceedings relate; and

- (b) in the case of proceedings within paragraph (3)(c), any penalty incurred in respect of any act or omission revealed by the facts on which the plaintiff relies in those proceedings.

(2) In any proceedings to which this subsection applies, a person shall not be excused, by reason that to do so should tend to expose that person, or his spouse, to proceedings for a related offence or for the recovery of a related penalty—

- (a) from answering any question put to that person in the first-mentioned proceedings; or
- (b) from complying with any order made in the first-mentioned proceedings.

(3) Subsection (2) applies to the following civil proceedings in the Court—

- (a) proceedings for infringement of copyright;

- (a) in answering a question put to him in any proceedings to which subsection (2) applies; or
- (b) in complying with an order made in any proceedings to which subsection (2) applies;

shall, in proceedings for any related offence or for the recovery of any related penalty, be admissible in evidence against that person or (unless they married after the making of the statement or admission) against the spouse of that person.

(5) Nothing in subsection (4) shall render any statement or admission made by a person as therein mentioned inadmissible in evidence against that person in proceedings for perjury or contempt of court.

(6) Any reference in this section to civil proceedings in the Court includes a reference to proceedings on appeal arising out of those civil proceedings.

Criminal liability for infringement

35. (1) A person who commits an infringement of a right protected under this Act for profit-making purposes, knowing or having reason to believe that he is committing an infringement, commits an offence and is liable on indictment to imprisonment for 10 years or to a fine of $100,000 or to both.

(2) The amount of the fine shall be fixed by the Court, taking into particular account the defendant's profits attributable to the infringement.

(3) The Court shall have the authority to increase up to double the penalty specified in subsection (1), where the defendant has been convicted for a new act of infringement within 5 years of a previous conviction for an infringement.

(4) The provisions of section 32(1)(b), (c) and (g), (3) and (5) shall apply mutatis mutandis in criminal proceedings, if no decision has yet been taken on such remedies in a civil proceeding.

Offences by bodies corporate

36. Where an offence under this Part committed by a body corporate is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance of, or to be attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate or any person who was purporting to act in any such capacity, he, as well as the body corporate, is guilty of that offence and is liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

Time limited for prosecution

37. No prosecution for an offence under this Act shall be commenced after the expiration of 5 years after the commission of the offence or 1 year after the discovery thereof, whichever date last occurs.

Measures, remedies and sanctions against abuses in respect of technical means

38. (1) The following acts shall constitute infringements of copyright—

- (a) the manufacture or importation for sale or rental of any device or means specifically designed or adapted to circumvent any device or means intended to prevent or restrict reproduction of a work or to impair the quality of copies made (the latter device or means hereinafter referred to as “copy-protection or copy-management device or means”);
- (b) the manufacture or importation for sale or rental of any device or means that is susceptible to enable or assist the reception of an encrypted program, which is broadcast or otherwise communicated to the public, including by satellite, by those who are not entitled to receive the program.

(2) Section 32 shall apply to an illicit device or means mentioned in subsection (1) as it applies to infringing copies.

(3) The owner of copyright in a work shall also be entitled to the damages for infringement provided for by sections 25(1) and 32(1)(d), where—

- (a) authorised copies of the work have been made and offered for sale or rental in an electronic form combined with a copy-protection or copy-management device or means, and a device or means specifically designed or adapted to circumvent the device or means is made or imported for sale or rental; or
- (b) the work is authorised for inclusion in an encrypted program broadcast or otherwise communicated to the public, including by satellite, and a device or means enabling or assisting the reception of the program by those who are not entitled to receive the program is made or imported for sale or rental.

Jurisdiction of Court

43. Subject to this Act, the Court shall have jurisdiction—

- (a) to determine any dispute which may be referred to it pursuant to section 45; and
- (b) to fix the amount of equitable remuneration or compensation which by any provision of this Act is required to be fixed by the Court in any case where there has been no agreement between a person and the owner of copyright as to the amount of remuneration or compensation payable in respect of the use of the work, sound recording, broadcast or performance.

Procedure in proceedings before the Court

44. (1) The procedure regulating the making of references and applications to the Court, the proceedings before the Court arising out of the jurisdiction conferred on the Court by this Part, and the fees chargeable in respect of those proceedings shall be prescribed by rules of Court.

(2) The Court may order that the costs or expenses of any proceedings before it under this Part which are incurred by any party shall be paid by any other party and may tax or settle the amount of any costs or expenses to be paid under any such order or direct in what manner they are to be taxed.

(3) Where—

- (a) the Court makes an order by way of determination of a dispute referred to it pursuant to section 45, the Court may, in its discretion, direct that the order shall have effect retroactively to such date as the Court specifies, but no order shall have effect from a date prior to the date on which the dispute was formally referred to the Court; and

- (b) in the case of a performance, to make a fixation or to broadcast or to communicate to the public the performance.

(3) For the purposes of this section, a licensing body shall be deemed to have refused to grant a general licence to a person if the licensing body has failed, within a reasonable time from the date when that person has made a written request to the licensing body for such a licence, to grant a licence or to state in writing the terms and conditions on which it is prepared to grant the licence.

(4) While an order made by the Court by way of determination of a dispute referred to it pursuant to subsection (1) remains in force, either party to the dispute may refer the matter back to the Court for further consideration, but except with the special leave of the Court—

- (b) to order a new hearing on any question without interfering with the finding or decision upon any other question; and the Court of Appeal may make such final or other order as the circumstances of the matter may require.

(4) The Court of Appeal may in any matter brought on appeal before it dismiss the appeal if it considers that no substantial miscarriage of justice has actually occurred notwithstanding that it is of the opinion that any point raised in the appeal might have been decided in favour of the appellant.
